INTRODUCTION TO PROJECT MANAGEMENT CERTIFICATE

Learn the fundamentals of project management through four core courses that use examples and hands-on application of project management principles.

The four Introduction to Project Management Certificate courses are held in January, February, March and April this spring 2016. 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Boise State Meridian Center 2950 Magic View Dr., Ste. 188 Meridian, Idaho

Project Planning and Organization Jan. 28-29, 2016
This course introduces the fundamentals of project management for project planning and organization. There will be extensive use of examples and hands-on application of these project management principles. Participants work on several case studies and relate best practices to their projects.

Project Execution and Change Management Mar. 16-17, 2016
This course deals with the people side of project management including how to approach the people and issues associated with your project. Team leaders, their teams and stakeholders learn how to better build successful teams, understand themselves, measure performance and how to effectively conduct meetings.

Project Leadership and Conflict Management Apr. 13-14, 2016
This course focuses on the leadership aspect of the project team. Qualities of project leaders include the ability to build trust, developing and managing agreements, making decisions and negotiating with team members when conflict arises.

Who should attend?
This certificate program is designed for supervisors, team leaders, team members, and individuals wanting to enhance their project management skills.

The four core project management course will additionally prepare participants for the PMP/CAPM prep boot camp.

Instructor
Rob Anson – Dr. Anson is Professor of Information Technology Management at Boise State University. Rob earned his MBA and Ph.D. from Indiana University with major in Management Information Systems and minor in Organizational Behavior.

John Zumsteg – Mr. Zumsteg has extensive experience in project management in a variety of roles, project types and clients. His project management experience includes “hands-on” roles as the project manager, trainer, project management consultant, and management coach.

Tricia Burns – Tricia Burns, MBA, is currently Adjunct Faculty for Boise State University’s Department of Management. Tricia earned her BS and MBA from Boise State. The later included elective courses in Grantsmanship and Instructional and Performance Technology.

Jerri Mizrahi – Ms. Mizrahi currently serves Boise State University as the Training & Development Manager. Prior to working at Boise State, Jerri has served in the public sector for over 20 years in training and organizational development and managerial positions.

Fee
$2,200 per person, includes all materials

More Information
Learn more at cpd.boisestate.edu

Register Today
Enroll Online – If you are paying by credit card, you may register at our website - cpd.boisestate.edu

Call The Center – (208) 426-1709, and provide your VISA, MasterCard, or Discover.

Groups – Group discounts are available for three or more participants registering from the same organization for the same course. Call (208) 426-1709.

Enroll online today at cpd.boisestate.edu or call (208) 426-1709. cpd.boisestate.edu • (208) 426-1709 • cpdinfo@boisestate.edu • Group Discounts Available