There are several degrees offered completely online from main campus. Please contact the Twin Falls Coordinator for more details.

Can I take Boise State courses before I’m finished with CSI?

Yes. You should be at junior standing, which is considered being met once you have completed 58 credits. You must have taken any prerequisite that is required for the course or courses that you are planning to enroll in. For Criminal Justice, Business, and Social Work majors, you must apply for admission to the program. You must also apply to be accepted into the Master of Social Work Program. See coordinator for application procedures and requirements.

Can I get financial aid?

Yes. Once you start taking upper division courses you must have your financial aid transferred to Boise State. You can receive financial aid from Boise State for both your CSI and Boise State credits combined. A consortium financial aid agreement (available in Boise State Coordinator’s Office) and on the "For Twin Falls Students” web page will need to be filled out. An official transcript from CSI must be sent to Boise State each semester.

How will I know if my CSI credits will transfer to Boise State University?

Boise State has established a transfer agreement with CSI. Students who complete an AA or AS degree from CSI receive a “Core Certified” stamp on their transcript. This means that you have fulfilled the lower-division general education or “core” classes at Boise State and can transfer to Boise State with junior standing. You will be responsible for meeting all graduation requirements, including specific courses required for your major.

Who teaches the Boise State-Twin Falls Program classes?

Typically, Boise State professors drive weekly to Twin Falls to teach the courses. Some classes are offered via videoconferencing or internet, and some courses are taught by adjunct faculty.

When should I apply to Boise State University?

You should apply to Boise State at least one semester prior to the semester you plan to start classes. The deadline to apply for admission and be considered for scholarships and priority financial aid for the fall semester is February 15th.
